PREFACE.

In presenting this volume of the BELLEVILLE CITY DIRECTORY I beg leave to express my thanks to the citizens generally and the business men in particular for their kindness, uniform courtesy and liberal encouragement, which has enabled me to complete and publish the work, in a form that I hope will be acceptable to my many patrons. In compiling this Directory I have taken great pains to insure its correctness and reliability. If there are errors, (I hope there are none) they are the result of incorrect information. If any are discovered, I trust a generous public will bear in mind that after all we are only human.

POPULATION.

By my method of computing the population in connection with the Directory I arrive at the positive number of inhabitants in the city. The whole number of inhabitants in the city of Belleville, January 1st, 1884, numbered 15,878.

Very Truly,

D. McKENZIE, Publisher.

DIRECTIONS FOR USING THE PATENT STOVE-PIPE FITTING AND FASTENING.

THE MOST IMPORTANT ADVANTAGES ARE:

1. The Stove-pipe can never go into the chimney due to its original draft.
2. The pipe and elbow (the elbow especially) can never fall out because they are combined with a rotating hook.
3. The wind cannot drive any shot into the room, as the collar fits closely to the wall.
4. The walls are not defaced by nails driven into them to hold the pipe.
5. The wire used cannot be seen, as it lays flat on the top of the pipe.
6. A stove-pipe two or more inches smaller than the chimney can also be well fastened.
7. No more holes or defacing are necessary about the stove-pipe.
8. The fastening requires no more trouble or pains to be placed on the pipe than common collars now in use.
9. The fastening may be employed in all cases without any exception.
